Customer Reviews

"This book, written by a member of the new generation of competent and informed Islamic Shari'ah scholars, is one of the clearest expositions of the intricacies of Islamic commercial law. The central focus of the book is the crucial condition that the litmus test of Islamic legitimacy of any commercial contract is its organic relationship with real assets, therefore, with the real sector of the economy. It is a valuable contribution to efforts at demystifying Islamic finance; it is well worth reading."

•;Abbas Mirakhor, Holder of INCEIF Chair in Islamic Finance "The book no doubt is a valuable addition to the Islamic commercial transaction subject as it discusses the different types of contracts in Islamic commercial law. In addition to the discussion on the fundamental and theoretical aspects of Islamic commercial contracts, the writer also explains briefly the application of those contracts in Islamic finance world today. One of the salient features of this textbook format is that the writer has provided true-or-false questions at the end of each topic as well as a short essay-type question on the type of contract discussed." •;Mohamad Akram Laldin, International Shari'ah Research Academy for Islamic Finance (ISRA) "Prof. Saleem's book on Islamic commercial law coherently covers all the major contracts as applied in the contemporary Islamic finance industry. The book explains lucidly some of the difficult concepts and principles governing Islamic finance transactions. The learning outcomes at the beginning of each chapter serve as a useful guide for students, while the questions at the end of each chapter assist the students in their comprehension of the subject matter. This book is highly recommended for beginners in Islamic finance." •;Rafe Haneef, CEO, HSBC Amanah Malaysia Bhd "Shari'ah compliance in commercial, business, and banking activities is necessary for Muslims. This necessitates a demand for a book that would introduce all the essential contracts associated with Islamic commerce, banking, and finance. Islamic Commercial Law by Dr. Saleem has combined the theory with the practice and is a timely and welcome addition to the existing literature in English. The book is part of the rich teaching experience at the Kulliyah of Economics and Management Sciences, International Islamic University Malaysia. The beneficiaries will be university students and practitioners in Islamic financial institutions." •;Khaliq Ahmad, Dean, Kulliyah of Economics and Management Sciences, International Islamic University Malaysia "The emergence of Islamic banking and finance has refocused attention on Islamic transactions and commercial laws. Islamic Commercial Law is a timely and welcome addition to the growing literature on the subject. It is the first book in English to introduce all the essential contracts on Islamic commerce and finance in one volume. The author also incorporates diagrams, examples, and questions that offer a better understanding of the various commercial and financial transactions. This makes the book an important text and essential reading for the undergraduate and postgraduate students and for all those who work in Islamic financial institutions. I congratulate Dr. Saleem for providing students and practitioners with a useful resource that combines the theory with the practice." •;Moha Asri Abdullah, Head, Department of Economics, International Islamic University Malaysia
