Historic Walks Of Edmonton

Synopsis

Historic Walks of Edmonton takes a unique look at the historically significant landmarks of Alberta's capital city, from the downtown core to nearby residential areas, from breathtaking river valley vistas to intimate neighborhoods. It also includes parklike settings, featuring University of Alberta and Edmonton Cemetery tours. One of the most enjoyable ways to experience a city is to absorb its history and its stories during walks through its commercial area and residential neighborhoods. Packed with historical and architectural descriptions and interesting anecdotes, this book of urban walking tours provides a low-tech, healthy and educational alternative to becoming a couch potato. Includes over 200 contemporary and archival photographs.

Kathryn Ivany is a native Albertan, raised in Calgary, Red Deer and Edmonton. Her first job at the Provincial Museum of Alberta started a career in the study and interpretation of Alberta's natural and human history. Educated at the Universities of Alberta, Calgary and Cambridge, she has pursued historical subjects for over twenty years as a public historian working with Historic Sites to plan museums, the Historical Society of Alberta and the Archives Society of Alberta.
